ACT I

* The Igwe rushes out from the Labour point very worried....

IGWE : Adaobi! {Screams louder} Adaobi!

ADAABI : Igwe! {Runs up to the Igwe and kneels before him} Igwe!

IGWE : Adaobi, the queen is in labour. Hurry up to the village market, or to the square or anywhere, and call me whoever you see to help deliver her. She is in serious labour pains!

* Loolo screams from the manger.

ADAABI : Yes Igwe. {Sprinted off. Immediately}

* Adaobi very tense, runs to the centre stage, but got pierced by a nail on her way

ADAABI : - {Screams loudly} Chi mo! It's a nail!

* Adaobi managed to limp further forward and started with the solo overleaf.

ACT II

* The loolo continued screaming, and the Igwe and others that had come to help deliver the baby consoles her.

WOMAN: (Consoling) Loolo, sorry, Just one more push. Breaths deeply.

LOOLO: (Soberly, panting) OK..... OK..... (as she tries to breath deeply).

CUT

* The Chief priest, still sitting on the ground continued with his incantation.

CHIEF PRIEST: (Giggles.... Sings 'Ogerugo' shortly) (Throws the chaplet and scapula in his hands) Eke.... Orie... Afor.... NKwu..... (Continued singing....Laughs....) Oke!... O bu Oke..... (Giggles)

DRUNK: (Stumbled into the stage, whistling) μ na gi g'ebi K'ofu μ na gi μ na gi... μ na gi g'ebi K'ofu μ (Stops singing abruptly on seeing the Chief priest) Look Eze-mmuo, we are not expecting a herberlist, but a child that would be turning every water to wine, so why are you blocking the way?

* Chief Priest neglected his question, stooped up and made for the labour point.

DRUNK: Are you running? If you doubt me come lets go and confirm from the Igwe. We are expecting another good drunk, otherwise Igwe.... you would have to ask your loolo to suspend the conception.

* (Loolo screams again)
DRUNK: (On walking towards the delivery point in a jerky and uneven stride, stopped over some spilled waters...) (Screamed) What! who wasted this water that this child could have turned into wine for me? (Soliloquizing) What is wrong with these people?

* Nurse runs across the stage to get some water

DRUNK: (Shrieked) 'NKwu bu ndu eh!' Did I see well? This thing that just passed, is it a spirit or a being? Maybe the spirits have passed, but who knows if they are the good spirits or the bad spirits..... Whatever, as far as they don't snatch my wine.

* Nurse runs back with a bucket of water

DRUNK: (Exclaimed joyfully) Truly, this is a good spirit. They are bringing in water for transformation into wine. Kai! "John Ikenkwu, Mmanya agbaa n'obi chukwu!" (Tries to move but his inebriated state faults his steps.) "Ukwu biko, the n'eme n'iru" (taps his legs) (moves to the delivery place.)

* Loolo shouts loudly, A baby's cry is heard from the Labour room. Adaobi runs into the stage to announce his births. The Gongs, Flute, Xylophone, drums, etc beat loudly. The villages shouted joyfully as all dances to the new born

The next song is sang with the song backed by 'Igbo a kun'eche enyi'. Loolo and the Igwe; The nurse, carrying the new born; the drunkard, the priest, the Eze-mmuo all forms an entourage dancing round the stage, sharing the baby powder
