| 1. New prais-es be giv-en to Christ new-ly crowned.
 Who back to his heav-en a new way hath found;
 God's bless-ed-ness sha-ring be-fore us he goes,
 What man-sions pre-par-ing, what end-less re-pose. | 4. Thus spoke they, and straight' way. Where legions defend.
 Heaven's glitt'ring gateway, their Lord the attend,
 And cry, looking thither, "your portals let down
 For him who rides hither in peace and renown." |
| 2. His glory still praising on thrice holy ground,
 The apostles stood gazing his Mother around;
 With hearts that beat faster, with eyes full of love,
 They watched while their master ascended above. | 5. They asked, who keep sentry in that blessed town,
 "Who thus claimeth entry, a King of renown?"
 "The Lord of all valiance," that herald replied,
 "Who satan's battalions laid low in their pride." |
| 3. "No star can disclose him" the bright angels said;
 "Eternity knows him, your conquering head;
 Those high habitations he leaves not again,
 Till, judging all nations, on earth he shall reign." | 6. Grant, Lord, that our longing may follow you there,
 On earth who are thronging your temples with prayer;
 And unto you gather, Redeemer, your own,
 Where you with your Father do sit on the throne. |
